About the Western Parkland City Authority

The Western Parkland City Authority (WPCA) is the NSW Government agency shaping the Western Parkland City as the social, economic, and environmental powerhouse of Australia.

We work with communities, industry, local councils, and state and federal government to deliver new jobs and a more equitable future for the people of the Western Parkland City.

We're attracting investment to the region, accelerating the growth of key industries, and partnering with world-class education and training providers to upskill residents for the jobs of the future.

We are also delivering one of the country's most ambitious and exciting projects — Bradfield City Centre — located at the heart of the new Western Sydney Aerotropolis.

The decisions we are making today will shape the region for the next 100 years.

Our work

Delivery of the 114-hectare Bradfield City Centre

Upskilling residents of the Western Parkland City through our New Education and Training Model (NETM) micro-credential courses

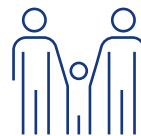

Growing industry capability through development of the Advanced Manufacturing Research Facility (AMRF)

Coordinating infrastructure development across the Western Parkland City

Attracting investment into the Western Parkland City

Supporting liveability projects to improve the lives of residents
